Danny Katz was born in Canada then moved to Australia as a young kid because he was allergic to moose.

After a failed career as a songwriter, a scriptwriter, a comedian, and a composer of bad rock operas, he did the only thing that was left to do - become a writer. He writes weekly newspaper columns for The Age and The Sydney Morning Herald. He also writes books for adults and kids, including Spit the Dummy, No Thanks Hanks, and the Little Lunch series (now a Logie-award winning TV show, shown on the ABC and all around the world).

Danny is passionate about words, music, comedy, canned beetroot, and getting young people to read more books. But most of all, canned beetroot.

REVIEWS

“Absolutely, Laugh Out Loud, Hilarious!!!! From the winning duo of Danny Katz and Mitch Vane who brought us the Little Lunch series... Kids will love the language as well as the hilarity of the various battles that the team face together...right up to the one that almost brings an end to their mission”
